AT THE WHITE HOUSE

For Naval Officer at Port of Baltimore.

RENO S. HARP OF FREDERICK

Urged by Delegation Headed by Representative Pearre Today.

EVANS HAS A CLEAR FIELD

For Republican Nomination to Be Governor of Tennessee and He May Be Elected.

President Roosevelt was today asked to nominate Reno S. Harp, a well-known lawyer of Frederick, as naval officer of the port of Baltimore, to succeed ex-Mayor William Malster, and said that he would be pleased to give the request his most careful consideration. He told the delegation that he had never visited the White House, that he would talk the nomination over with Secretary Bonaparte and Representative Pearre. Beyond that he made no promise and gave no indication of his intentions.

The term of Mr. Malster is about to expire and he has no backing in Maryland of a nature that would insure his retention in office. Representative Pearre and many other strong republicans in the state believe that the position should go to Mr. Harp, and the President could not help being impressed with the delegation that waited upon him and with the recommendations that have been filed in behalf of the Frederick man. The delegation over which Secretary Bonaparte and Representative Pearre presided was headed by a limited number of persons.

The delegation consisted of Representative Pearre, Elmer H. Walter, secretary to Representative Jackson; Marion Humphrey of Salisbury, Clot Blair and B. H. Warner of Montgomery, Charles H. Wagoner of Washington county, G. W. Z. Black and Roger Moton of Frederick county, G. H. Murdock of Annapolis, Charles C. Gorchuch, Carroll county; Charles C. Eyler, James T. K. Young, Colonel George J. Lucke, Colonel Calvin R. Nutt, Colonel John Rouser, Rev. A. J. Gill, Melvin P. Wood, John R. Young, John H. Marz, Wm. C. Cuthall, Annapolis, and G. D. Dinterman, Wm. H. Hogarth, David M. Zenta, Fabian Posey, Dr. W. A. Long, George L. Kaufman, George W. Crum, Jesse C. Grett, Edward J. Myers, of Frederick county, Colonel A. G. Surges of Oakland, John J. Bell and Daniel Houck of Maryland and A. A. Blakeney of Annapolis.

Mr. Harp is backed by Representatives Pearre and Jackson, and may have the backing of Representative Mudd and is supported by forty of the forty-five republican members of the legislature; by republican leaders all over the state, by G. A. R. officials, distinguished clergymen, and in various walks of life, including judges and editors.

The President was especially cordial to Jesse C. Claggett (Uncle Jess), who was a comrade in the Rough Riders in the Spanish war. He insisted on Mr. Claggett coming in to see him often.

H. Clay Evans Has a Clear Field. Representative Hale of Tennessee told the President today that there is at last every appearance of harmony in the republican ranks of that state. The hot fight for the republican gubernatorial nomination between H. Clay Evans and T. A. Wright has been settled by the latter withdrawing. This insured the nomination of Evans and his possible election.

The work of giving Evans a clear field is attributed to Representative Hale, who was some time ago elected to the leadership in Tennessee politics. Mr. Hale went down to Tennessee last week and he had not been there before the election. The withdrawal of Wright's withdrawal was made public. This action is supposed to settle the bitter fight between Evans and Representative Brownlow, who was instrumental in putting Wright in the field.

"It looks to me as if Evans would be elected governor of Tennessee this fall," said Mr. Hale. "The democrats have never been as badly split up as they are now. They are at dagger's points over the United States senatorial election. The governor, and nobody sees how it is possible for them to extricate themselves in time to prevent the republicans capturing the state. Evans is a regular man, even among the democrats, and there would not be much soreness in that party should he be elected. It is at least certain that the democrats have never been as bright for the republicans as at this time."

H. Clay Evans came within a few votes of being elected governor of Tennessee in 1904. Since then he has served as commissioner of pensions and as consul general of the United States at London. He succeeded in the last place by Robert J. Wynne, former Postmaster General.

It Was All a Huge Mistake. After all, Senator Dolliver does not take it as much to heart as most people think. He acquiesces with ease and grace. Although the Allison amendment was at first a funny looking thing to a man who had held an altogether different proposition well fastened in his mind, he is getting used to it.

Even a skittish horse gets used to an automobile, and now the Iowa senator will almost go up to the Allison machine without jumping. Senator Dolliver as good as said to himself today when he had talked with the President and the newspaper men held him up in the vestibule to inquire whether he was taking it as easy as could be expected. He could hardly help laughing himself as he got off this nice one: "It's a great pity that such intelligent Iowa senators as there are in Washington should have made the error of supposing there was a mountain ahead on this rate bill, when it was simply a thin cloud, not very high up at that and easily dispelled."

The newspaper men agreed that it was a sad thing they had been so badly fooled, and one of them wanted to know how it was that the great Senate had been five months fighting away that very cloud.

Senator Dolliver believes that the rate bill will be passed by the Senate within a few days. He thinks that everybody is inclined to put on speed so as to get through with the work of Congress. He thinks that the amendment to place a provision in the rate bill prohibiting railroads owning coal lands for business purposes, the Iowa senator was inclined to think that this proposition would be referred back to the proper committee. He thought that in view of the fact that the question of coal mines being owned by railroads was now under investigation by the interstate commerce commission the Senate would proceed with legislation.

For the Relief of Midshipmen. The President had a conference today with two of the naval officers who formed the court-martial in the cases of the midshipmen who were convicted at Annapolis of having given various sentences. It is understood that the conference related to the restoration of such midshipmen as appear to deserve restoration to their positions. The President wanted to become fully acquainted with the facts of the trials at Annapolis before proceeding.

Admiral Evans paid his respects to the President today. He will return to his squadron in a few days.

President Roosevelt has signed the bill passed by Congress providing for a delegate in Congress from Alaska.

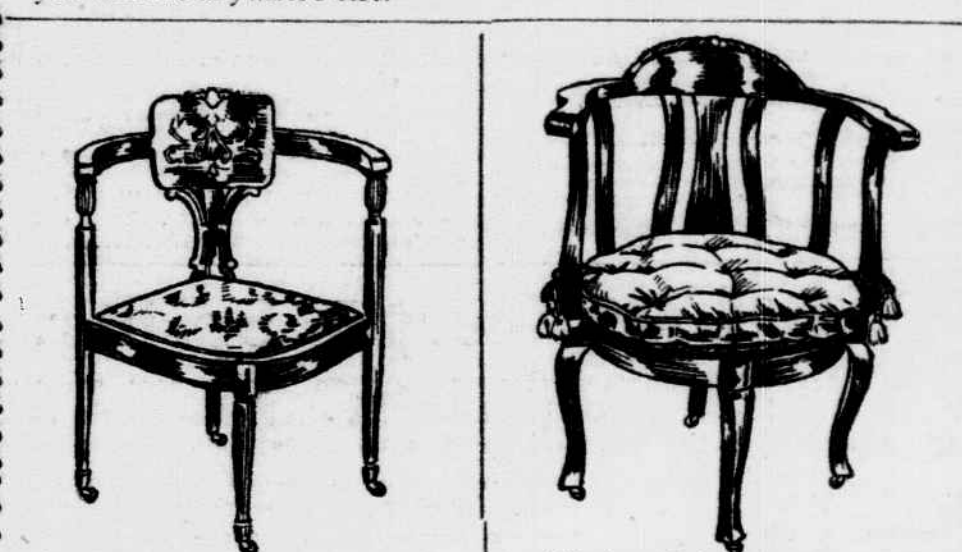

Consuls General at Large. The President today sent the following nominations to the Senate:

Consuls general at large (to take effect July 1, 1906)—Planning D. Cheshire, New York; Horace Lee Washington, Washington, D. C.; Charles M. Dickinson, New York; George H. Murphy, North Carolina; Richard M. Bartleman, Massachusetts. Postmasters—Illinois, J. Bromfield, Chicago; A. B. Spruill, Sparta; J. F. Overholser, Steadley, Samuel & Dinger, Wilmette. ## INCREASE NOTED.

Report of Health Office as to Contagious Diseases. Increases in three forms of contagious diseases in the District during the past week are shown in the report of the health office for the seven days ended Saturday, which was issued this afternoon. Scarlet fever, typhoid fever and smallpox claimed a total of thirty-two victims during the week, the changes noted in each instance being as follows:

"There were seventeen new cases of scarlet fever reported and but two discharged as recovered, which increases the total number in quarantine from twenty-five cases at close of last week to forty on the present date.

"Typhoid fever was increased by twelve new cases, less four cases discharged during the week (one by death), making a total of fifty cases under treatment. During the same week of 1905 there was but one new case reported, and the week closed with only twenty-three cases under treatment.

"Another outbreak of smallpox manifested itself in three cases, increasing the number of patients confined at the hospital to five.

The remainder of the report reads: "While the contagious disease record shows anything but an improvement, the general mortality of the week for a gratifying improvement over last week's record as well as over the record of the same week of 1905, viz: Ninety-five deaths, as compared with 133 last week and 114 the same period of last year. Of these recent deaths an improvement is noted in the number resulting from the following: Diseases of the nervous system, 9 deaths, as compared with 13 last week; respiratory system, 12 to 20; genito-urinary system, 9 to 14; deaths in infancy, 2 to 10. There were 4 deaths less from consumption than last week; 6 less from apoplexy; 3 less from diarrheal diseases and malignant growths; 4 less from pneumonia, and 8 less from kidney diseases.

"The mortality this week was comprised of 38 white and 37 colored deaths, which represent the following death rates per 1,000 inhabitants: White, 12.9; colored, 19.9; all, 14.9; compared with 16.9, 20.7 and 14.9, respectively, last week and 18.5, 28 and 18.5 during the same week of 1905.

"There were 130 births reported, of which 107 were white infants and 27 colored.

"The atmospheric conditions for the week, reported by the weather bureau, were: Mean temperature, 66; mean relative humidity, 79; mean actual barometer, 30.1; wind, light and variable; gusts five miles an hour, and reached a maximum of twenty-eight miles, on 5th instant. The minimum temperature was 51, on the 30th ultimo, and minimum 46, on the 29th ultimo.
